Archetype of the Apocalypse: Divine Vengeance, Terrorism, and the End of the World | George R. Elder, Edward F. I was hoping for a more general discussion of the apocalypse archetype and how it applies to modern civilization. This disc It's difficult to rate any of Edinger's work less than 5 stars. He was one of the greatest expositors of depth psychology and whatever he wrote contains profound insight into human and transpersonal psychology. The apocalypse archetype moves through phases, like a grand initiation: the "revelation" -- a shattering insight accompanied by the flow of transpersonal images into consciousness; "judgement" in the form of an abrupt and profound awareness of the shadow; "punishment" manifested as individual anxiety in the midst of the transformation; and, finally, the coming of a "new world" through mandala and quaternity images, signifying a move toward a new wholeness. The collective belief in Armageddon has become more powerful and widespread in the wake of recent terrorist attacks. Edward Edinger looks at the chaos predicted by the Book of Revelation and relates it to current trends including global violence, AIDS, and apocalyptic cults.
