As soon as I saw the title 'The Koreans', I really wanted to read this book. I have been wondering about how the Korean history, culture, and people are reflected on the 'foreign eyes', as I was born in Korea and raised in this country. Michael Breen is a writer and consultant who first went to Korea as a correspondent in 1982. He covered North and South Korea for several newspapers, including the Guardian (London), the Times (London), and the Washington Times. Michael Breen (born 31 July 1952) is an English author, consultant and journalist covering North and South Korea. Breen writes occasional opinion columns for international and South Korean media. Since 2000, he has written a featured column for The Korea Times, an English-language daily in South Korea, where he comments on South Korean society, culture, and political issues.
